TWO TOWNSHIPS IN ARMS OVER ILLEGALITIES

Vigilance Committees Formed in Westmoreland and Fayette Townships

RIFFRAFF CAUSES TROUBLE

Citizens of Rostraver and Washington townships in Westmoreland and Fayette counties are up in arms because of intolerable conditions said to exist from daily and nightly visitations of the riffraff of the river section and have organized a vigilance committee to conduct a thorough campaign. Aid of the state police and the district attorneys of the two counties has been secured.

It is complained by the residents of the two counties that certain hibernating classes of the Monongahela valley and a number of automobile parties have their favorite gatherings places at convenient points in one or another of the townships and that they make life miserable with their intolerable and disgusting behavior. One man complained that he had to keep his children housed in so that they would not hear or witness the occurrences near his home that so far he had been unable to stop. Church services have been carried on with difficulty and without the arm of the law to back them residents have been powerless to stop the numerous infractions.

Business men, farmers and professional men are included in the vigilance committee, making it a serious minded body that means business. Each member has signed his name to a general constitution that forcibly defines intention.

CONGRESSMAN TEMPLE SPEAKING IN MAINE

Washington County Congressman One Of Party Chosen by National Committee For Campaign. Addresses in New England

Congressman Henry W. Temple of this district is among the national campaign speakers in Maine this week, in the interest of the Republican candidates. The Maine election will be held the first week of September and both the Republican and Democratic parties are sending in their most effective campaigners.

The committees realize that the result of the election in Maine will have an effect on the result of the general election in November. A United States senator and four members of Congress are to be elected this fall. The present senator is a Democrat and the Republicans hope to swing the state back into the Republican column. Congressman Temple will spend several days in speech-making in the Pine Tree state.

Coroner Arranges Inquest.

Coroner James T. Heffran is arranging for an inquest to be held next Monday at Washington into the Baltimore and Ohio railroad wreck at Vance's station Tuesday morning.

More Gasoline; Price is Less

Autoists Profit by Drop Due to Discovery of More Crude Product—Further Cuts Hoped

It will be possible for local automobile owners to drive a little farther today than they did a few days ago for the same money. The reason for this is that motor fuel has dropped in price and is dropping all over the country.

In a days time it dropped here from 28 to 25 cents per gallon at some establishments. The cause for this is not that the refiners are playing philanthropists in the reduction but a generous earth interior has been bubbling more of the crude product than the manufacturers could absorb, hence the tumble.

The drop is different in various parts of the country and it seems likely that the present reduction will at least stand, and there is hope of further cuts.

GOOD PROGRESS IN CLEANUP HERE

Health Department Moves Tons of Litter From Down Town Sections

BEGIN HILL DISTRICT WORK

Good progress is being made in the thorough cleanup that it is being made in Charleroi as a result of action of the board of health taken at a recent meeting. The work of cleanup is under the supervision of Health Officer William Darby and is being done by Harry Perry, garbage collector.

Tons upon tons of litter is being moved. A house to house canviss has been made in the down town section below Washington avenue, and a start is now being made in the hill section above Washington. Monday will see the beginning of a thorough canvass through the hill districts.

No trouble has been experienced thus far. Paper slips are issued by the health officer to the garbage collector for the different places visited, so that system will be followed.

The cleanup is part of a statewide campaign to prevent any possible epidemic of infantile paralysis. It was started by the Charleroi health board immediately upon the receipt of a request from Dr. Samuel G. Dixon, state health commissioner.

These young men have a splendid reputation in school and church circles as singers.

PEDESTRIAN IS WAYLAID AND ROBBED ON SPEERS' HIGHWAY

Fayette City Man on Way Home From New York is Relieved of $72 and Two Watches When Assaulted by Highwayman

Waylaid while walking from Charleroi to Speers on the connecting brick road, Robert Beattie of Fayette City, just returned from New York City, was knocked unconscious and robbed of $72 and two watches Friday night about 8 o'clock. Regaining consciousness later he came to Charleroi, had a blackjack wound in the back of his head doctored and notified the police. The highwayman is believed to be a home man of a gang that has a haunt near the road to Speers.

Mr. Beattie had been visiting his father in New York city and returned Thursday to Pittsburg. From there he caught the street car to Pittsburg. From there he caught the street car to Charleroi, alighting here. Not feeling well he started to walk to Speers, hoping to board a car there for the remainder of the journey.

According to his own story Beattie was accosted by a man as he approached O'Neil's stop. The man asked him for the price of a drink and he replied affirmatively, when he was struck on the head. He knew nothing more until he wakened and found his money and two watches gone. The chain of one of the watches had been broken.

The ugly wound on Beattie's head gave evidence that it had been inflicted with a blackjack. The police are working on the holdup.

FIND TRUE BILL AGAINST DILLON, NOW IN THE PEN

Man Recently Taken to Colorado Prison Must Answer Robbery Charges Here if Released

James F. Dillon, who with Thomas H. Talbot, was charged with the robbery of the First National bank of Houston last April has been indicted by the grand jury. Talbot, it will be recalled, was convicted and sentenced to the penitentiary. Dillon was later captured at Montreal, Canada, and brought back to this county. He was, however, turned over to the Colorado state authorities, being wanted as an escaped life term convict. The procuring of an indictment in the county simply means the local authorities would have something to hold Dillon on were he released in Colorado.

The work of the grand jury is moving along rapidly, the majority of the cases being of minor importance.

ANNOUNCEMENT MADE OF DACY-AMOS ENGAGEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. George Paxton estertained the girl friends of Miss Ethel A. Amos at their home on Summerlea avenue, Uniontown. Covers were laid for six. The place cards were hand painted and each was attached to a ribbon which led to a bouquet of pink and white sweet peas and lilies which concealed a card announcing the engagement of Miss Ethel A. Amos to Earl T. Dacy, of Charleroi, which will terminate in a late fall wedding. The dining room was tastefully decorated in pink and white and was lighted with pink and white candles. A three-course luncheon was served and toasts were given by those present to the bride-to-be. Mrs. Paxton was assisted by her sister, Mrs. J. M. Amos, in serving. It was announced informally that wedding bells would ring for Miss Mary Claffey of Washington and William Smith of Pittsburg on August 14.

NEW CHARLEROI INDUSTRY MAKING ALUMINUM CLEANER

Local Firm of Young Men Making Good With Chemical Compound—Ready Market in Various States

Something different in the line of a small industry which promises to be a comer has been recently started in Charleroi. The company is called The Alumno Chemical company and is the idea of two Charleroi young men. Walter Ailes and Ernest O. Dorbritz. At present the company is manufacturing a product called "Alumno" which is a polish designed especially for the cleaning and polishing of aluminum. It is not only for aluminum but it also polishes brass, silver, nickle, copper and in fact any metal at all that will take a finish. There is already a big deband for the company's product and a number of salesmen are on the road in this and other states.

"Alumno" is the first of a number of products that the firm will manufacture. They intend to soon have a number of valuable household necessities such as this on the market.

A display will be put on this week in the window of the Frye Hardware Co showing "Alumno", the first of their products that will appear.

Mr. Moore was born in Monongahela and lived there all his life. He was married but his wife has been dead for 15 years. His two children Harriet and Frank are living at home. He was employed by the Pennsylvania Railroad for the past 25 years. The funeral services will be held from the late home Saturday at 230 p. m. Interment will be in the Monongahela cemetery.

Commissioners Inspect Bridges

Tour Completed—Commissioners Also Give Attention to County Roads—Roads Turned Over to State

The members of the board of County Commissioners have been making inspections of various county bridges in company with Engineer George S. Chaney, during the past few days. Wednesday they investigated the condition of several bridges on the Thomas-Canonsburg and Canonsburg-McDonald roads which will require some repair work during the summer.

The commissioners are also giving their attention to the matter of repairing all county roads this summer which come under their jurisdiction. There are some twenty miles of improved roads built by the county which were taken over by the state and which were kept up by the state. These roads have recently been turned back to the county under a ruling from the Attorney General.

The result has been that neither the county nor the state has done anything to place these roads in condition. The Commissioners however expect to go ahead and spend some money on them during the summer, awaiting the final outcome of the dispute between the state and the counties over their jurisdiction.

DREAD DISEASE FINDS ANOTHER VALLEY VICTIM

Elco Child Becomes Afflicted With Infantile Paralysis—Is Quarantined

DR. WOOD ENFORCING LAW

One new case of infantile paralysis has developed in the river section Gene the five year old son of Mr. and Mrs. August Bahanke of Elco having become afflicted. Upon orders of the state department of health strict quarantine has been established. Dr. C. B. Wood of Monongahela, county medical inspector for the state department of health sent a nurse to the place and will make a trip there later for inspection of conditions.

Dr. Wood went to West Alexander near the West Virginia state line today to enforce health regulations pertaining to crossing from state to state. At that point Health Officers W. G. Nease and Frank Condit have been boarding trains and stopping children under 16 who are crossing the state line without health permits. Likewise he will put additional patrols on a trolley line that runs near the line. It is said that a number have been crossing without proper authorization.

At Donora there is one case of the disease now and a case at Monessen.

COST OF GOVERNMENT.

Municipal government is costing the American people considerably more than does State government. This is one of the facts brought out by a preliminary report issued today by the Bureau of the Census on states' finances during the fiscal year 1915.

In twenty-nine of the forty-eight states the excesses of expenditures for governmental costs, including interest and outlays for permanent improvements, over revenues during the year was $55,283,494, or 86 cents per capita. In the remaining nineteen states the excess of revenues over expenditures was $18,608,917 or 37 cents per capita.

The aggregate revenue of all the states during the year were $458,282,597; the aggregate expenditures for current governmental costs, including interest, $399,714,285; and the aggregate outlays for permanent improvements, $95,192,799.

For all the states taken as a group the per capita receipts from property taxes were $2.73; from other taxes, 98 cents; from earnings of general departments, 51 cents; and from all other sources combined, 43 cents.

The highest per capita property taxes, $7.28 are shown for Arizona; and the lowest, 91 cents, for Missouri.

The average per capita expenditures from all governmental costs, including interest and outlays, in the 48 states were $5.03. The highest figure shown under this head for any one state, $12.17, is that for California; and the lowest, $1.87, for South Carolina. The average per capita expenditures for all governmental costs, including interest but excluding outlays, were $4.06. The highest figure appearing under this head for any state is that for Nevada, $10.70; and the lowest is shown for South Carolina, $1.81.

One of the most pleasing things to note in official circles is the activity being shown toward eliminating the unspeakable speakeasies of the Bentleyville district. It appears that the town and vicinity has been polutted with liquor selling houses operating illegally and that some of them have been openly conducted establishments. That they have had an ill effect on the community is certain. Only once in awhile do such violations come to the surface in any one community and still the court seems busy with them at every term. Foreigners mostly are the illicit traffickers in intoxicating beverages. Whether it is because they don't know the law or don't care is a question. Anyhow it makes no difference. If they don't know they should ask in order to learn and if they do know and willfully disobey they ought to suffer the consequences just the same.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

In Pittsburg literary circles there is a periodic outbreak of discussion about Omar Khayyam, says the Pittsburg Post. We are reminded of a comment by an editor in Goshen, N. Y., that "this long dead Persian poet who sang so blithesomely of wine and women—

A book of verses beneath the bough,
A fug of wine, a loaf of bread—and thou—

and who so cheerfully dismissed with no concern the great problems of destiny, was all his married life the worst henpecked man in Nonsanpur."

Others entertain the opinion that Omar was an old souse who weaved homeward with as much juice under his belt as he could carry without collapsing and fracturing his proboscis.

"That stringy-looking lady giving us over there is our well-known address," triumphantly stated the landlord of the Petunia tavern. "Her descriptions are printed in the big newspapers all over the country. She's an old maid. Her name is Miss Josephine Clatter."

"Strange, but I do not remember having heard anything about her," said the stranger. "What does she write—poetry?"

"Nope; testimonials. She has been cured of most all of the ills that human flesh is ill to, as the feller said."—Exchange.

MAINTENANCE OF AMERICAN RIGHTS.

Had this government by the use of both informal and formal diplomatic opportunities left no doubt that when we said "strict accountability" we meant precisely what we said and that we should unhesitatingly vindicate that position I am confident that there would have been no destruction of American lives by the sinking of the Lusitania. There we had ample notice—in fact, published notice. Furthermore, we knew the situation, and we did not require specific notice. Instead of whittling away our formal statements by equivocal conversations, we needed the straight, direct and decisive representations which every diplomat and foreign office would understand. I believe that in this way we should have been spared the repeated assaults on American lives. Moreover, a firm American policy would have been strongly supported by our people and the opportunities for the development of bitter feeling would have been vastly reduced.—From Mr. Hughes' Speech of Acceptance.

Bad Spellers.

Lord Wolseley noted that spelling had been the weak point of many great commanders. He was defending Marlborough against the charge of illiteracy, brought by Lord Chesterfield for one, who said he was "eminently illiterate, wrote bad English and spelt it worse." Wolseley replied that a great many of Marlborough's distinguished contemporaries, such as Lord Chancellor Somers, spelled quite as badly and that Wellington and Napoleon also were among those who could never learn to do it properly.—London Telegraph.

QUEER.

He's a very queer old fellow and he wears a high silk lid, and the stunts he pulls are mighty odd—his train of thought must skid; that's the dope that we've whipped over since we've heard about this gent, our conclusions may be faulty and our line of reason bent. It is said we should not judge a guy—we should not tip our hand since our viewpoints cannot be the same, we cannot understand, why a fellow does a certain thing and acts a certain way, since his thoughts are not the same as ours, 'tis hard for us to say, just the reason why he should be thus, and why he should do so, we had better keep our silence till the facts we learn and know, and not jump at rash conclusions and call some poor guy a mut, or some fellow who pulls funny stunts, a simpleton or nut. So I'll ask this aged gentleman if he'll explain to me, just why he strolls to calvary his monument to see, and sits in silence all day long within his graveyard lot, with banners waving from his tomb—some cheerful, we think not, and why he sticks around out there we're not prepared to say—we might conclude that he's afraid he'll miss the judgment day.

If Threatened With Tuberculosis

you must pay proper attention to diet and living conditions, and get plenty of rest and fresh air and good food. Many a life claimed by this affection might have been saved by timely attention to these matters. In many cases, however, a rundown system needs assistance. Under these circumstances, try Eckman's Alterative, a lime treatment which has the unique quality of being easily assimilated by the average person.

Give Nature every chance, but strengthen your own chances by using this preparation, which often has effected beneficial results.

No undue claims are made for it, but it has helped in many cases. And it is safe to try, for it contains no opiates, narcotics or habit-forming drugs. From your druggist.

Gothic Architecture.

The styles called Gothic, springing from a common source in Romanesque architecture and developing throughout western Europe on differing lines, are in general characterized by the following features, although not all of these will be found in all examples:

Ribbed vaulting, pointed arches, the flying arch and pinnacled buttress, clustered shafting, traceried windows in all but the earliest phases, stained glass, a progressive tendency toward loftiness, lightness of supports and suppression of wall surfaces, a system of decoration of which one element was the emphasis and adornment of structural features and another the use of sculpture and carving of human, animal, vegetable and grotesque forms, controlled by a definite didactic purpose and significance, and finally the use of available materials according to their nature upon principles in part of structural logic and in part of decorative effect.—A. D. F. Hamlin in Architectural Record.

National Flags.

If the question were asked which country's national flag had been longest in use the answer would be either the dragon banner of China or the chrysanthemum flag of Japan. The former has been used from a very early period, and the latter is as old as the present dynasty in Japan, which is the most ancient in the world.

Among European national flags that of Denmark, a white St. George's cross on a red ground, is the most ancient, having been in use since 1219. No other flag has existed without change for anything like the same period as a national emblem, although there are royal standards that are older.

The Spanish colors date only from 1785, and Great Britain's flag in its present form was first flown after the union with Ireland in 1801. The stars and stripes of the United States was first planned and ordered by Washington of an upholsterer in Philadelphia and formally adopted on June 14, 1777. —London Spectator.

Shaving on One Side.

The shaving on one side only of the heads and beards of prisoners of war was obviously done to prevent any attempt at escape. But there have been other motives for such half shaving, which occurs at all sorts of points in history. Sometimes the act has been pure insult, as when Hanun, king of the children of Ammon, shaved off half of the beards of David's servants. In these days the victims would have mended matters by shaving the other half. But Jewish reverence for the beard forbade that, and David told the men to "tarry at Jericho until your beards be grown." Demosthenes, when he shut himself up for months in a subterranean chamber to practice oratory, shaved half of his head to cut off all temptation to go abroad.—London Chronicle.

Earrings Denote Widowhood.

That India is a land of curious customs is confirmed by the Popular Science Monthly. A widow, instead of wearing black crape, dons ponderous earrings made of solid brass. Since her widowhood is perpetual she is obliged to wear them the rest of her life. Each year another ring is added. The constantly increasing weight of metal stretches the lobe of the ear, to which it is attached, in an extraordinary manner. It is safe to say that no widow ever forgets the fact of her widowhood when wearing such a clumsy weight.

A Silent City.

No industry brings the village of Giithoorn, Holland, into touch with the world. It is almost wholly inaccessible except by water, and the inhabitants are shy and keep within doors, betraying not the slightest interest in visitors. Indeed, Giithoorn has been likened, empty and silent in its green picturesqueness, to a place visited in a dream.—Argonaut.

Progressive.

"When did you commit your first fatal extravagance?"

"When my boss referred to my wages as my 'salary.'"

"And when did you perpetrate this latest folly?"

"The day my wife called my salary my 'income.'"—Cleveland Leader.
